Senate Adopts New Constitution

Ratification Next Month

Last Tuesday night, the Senate unanimously adopted the proposed new constitution and moved to have a vote for ratification early in the second semester.

Mark Evans, chairman of the Constitution Re-evaluation Committee, offered the document as the "present concept of student government." The changes adopted were mainly structural. The proposed constitution makes explicit the concept that the Senate does not exist as a power itself, but is representative of the power of the student body, recognizing the responsibility of group representation.

Mark Maxwell questioned whether the re-evaluation committee intended proportional or group representation in the Senate. He pointed out that the Independents, a group of 109, has but one representative on the Senate and that it is impossible for one person to be in touch with such a large number of people. Jim Memmott then said that each fraternity represents a physical plant, a buying group, whereas the Independents are a "conglomeration of people. They are not supposed to be organized, by the very nature of their status."

Evans contended that group representation would not hurt the student body as a basis of power. Not only would proportioning complicate matters, but the need for it is not urgent this year.

The Senate also discussed the newly proposed Judiciary Board. The proposed constitution gives the Board more power than the Judiciary Committee now holds. The Senate and the Board would, under the proposed constitution, be completely independent. The judiciary would be separate from the legislative and the executive. According to Evans, this change would help the social regulations to command "more respect and awe."

Reporting as Chairman of the Rushing Committee, Ty Brown said that he expects the final rushing quota to be between 215 and 220. The number of Freshmen who have indicated they wish to rush is 216.

Brown also stated that the Rushing Committee this year is allowing freshmen to enter upperclass dormitories during the period when upperclassmen are not permitted to enter Dunham Dormitory.

Speaking for the Rathskeller Committee, Maxwell reported that the committee has found it more practical to obtain a club license than a public beer license. For this reason, a corporation, in which each student is a member, is being formed with Dean Wertimer president and Dean Winton Tolles, vice-president. The proposed corporation should be formed by this weekend.

According to Maxwell, the Committee is "moving along as fast as possible, even though it seems very slow," towards the actual construction of the Rathskeller.

The Social Committee, Maxwell said, will run the Rathskeller. The Administration, the Board of Trustees, the Faculty, and the Saga Food Company will all be represented in the corporation as advisors.

Maxwell also questioned the desirability of holding the traditional dance during Winter Carnival. He noted that, in the past, attendance has been poor. However, he maintained that a dance is a "nice way for the college community to enjoy a function together." Maxwell offered two alternatives to the traditional five-hour dance: (1) a dance and a "show"; (2) no dance, in preference to some form of entertainment, such as a concert. The Senate decided that the committee should work within a dance framework.

College Hires New Physician

President Robert W. McEwen has announced the appointment of Dr. Leon M. Roe as a full-time, resident physician for the College.

Roe, who is currently a general practitioner in Canisteo, N. Y., will begin his new duties in late summer.

A 1933 graduate of Alfred University, Roe received an M.D. degree from the University of Buffalo School of Medicine and served an internship in that city's Deaconess Hospital.

He practiced in Canisteo from 1938 until 1941 when he became a naval medical officer. After his discharge from the navy as a lieutenant commander in 1946, Roe returned to Canisteo.

A member of the American, New York State, and Steuben County Medical Societies, Roe is a fellow of the International College of Surgeons. Past president of the staff of both St. James Mercy and Bethesda Community Hospitals in Hornell, N. Y., he is currently serving a five-year term as Steuben County coroner.

Fund Approaches $2.5 Million Mark In Drive To Meet Ford Challenge

"As we are now at the half-way mark in both time and money in matching the Ford Foundation grant, the fund raising campaign must be termed a success so far," reported Bert Wallace, director of development at Hamilton. As of Jan. 6, $2,432,726 had been raised in Hamilton's drive to raise $5 million to be matched by $2 million from the Ford Foundation. The College must reach its goal by July 1, 1965.

Wallace said that the present drive is actually the second phase of a campaign to raise $12 million. The first phase was connected with the College's one hundred fiftieth anniversary.

Roughly $3 million was raised in the drive, nearly $2 million of which also applies to the drive to equal the Ford Foundation challenge.

Including the $600,000 that the Ford Foundation has already given the college, the total raised since the anniversary drive was begun has reaced $3,162,126. Of the money received from the Ford Foundation, $400,000 was granted immediately following the announcement of the program and the rest was given at the close of the years.

"One of the treacheries for both the donor, the college, and the individuals doing the actual fund raising work is to think only in terms of money. The greatest enjoyment is not merely the raising of the money, but instead to see it in use," Wallace said. He specifically cited two instances in which both he and the others involved in the fund-raising gained enormous satisfaction from seeing the fund money put to actual use.

The first case involved the $2500 donated by Sperry and Hutchinson Inc. which has been used to finance the present lecture series on the world's population problems.

The second concerned the five Clark Foundation scholarships awarded annually to five incoming freshmen. These grants follow the students throughout their undergraduate and graduate training. Since each of the scholar-

Clinton Committee on Brotherhood To Hold Discussions on Civil Rights

Human Rights 1964, a lecture and discussion series sponsored by the Clinton Committee on Brotherhood, the Clinton Council of Church Women, and St. Mary's Women's Club, had its first meeting this week in Clinton.

On Wednesday evening, Ty Brown, '64, and Joseph Rivers, a mathematics teacher at the Rome Free Academy, spoke on "The Moral Issue."

The Rev. Clyde Bowman, D.D., pastor of the Grace Union Methodist Church, Rome, N.Y., and president of the Oneida County Chapter of the NAACP; Edward Perry, principal of the Potter School in Utica; and Edward Wilson, a social studies teacher at the Utica Free Academy, will speak on Jan. 15 on the topic of "Education."

William Chiles, Director of Relocation for the City of Syracuse, will speak on "Housing" on Jan. 22.

The final lecture of the series, on Jan. 29, will deal with "Employment." John Mahoney, head of the District Office of the U.S. Department of Labor; Vincent Perry, a representative of CORE; and Fred Purcell, president of the Greater Utica Federation of Labor, CIO-AFL, will be the speakers at this final meeting.

Some time in February, the series will also show the film A Raisin in the Sun.

The three remaining lectures in the series will all take place at 8 p.m. in the Clinton Elementary School Cafetorium.

Student Receives Four-Year Grant

David H. Postles, '64, has been awarded one of 100 regents scholarships for medicine and dentistry sponsored by the State of New York.

Scholarship holders are entitled to an award of $350 to $1,000 a year for four years while attending an approved medical or dental college in New York State.

Postles, a member of Chi Psi, is a biology major and president of Hamilton's Biology Club. He plans to study at the Upstate Medical Center in Syracuse next year.

Trustee Ends Career As Officer of A.T.&T.

William C. Bolenius, '21, a member of the Board of Trustees of the College, has retired as vice chairman of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, ending a career that began with his graduation from Hamilton in 1921.

Bolenius started as a traffic inspector with the New York Telephone Company in New York City. After holding a series of positions with the company in Syracuse, Elmira, Buffalo and Albany, he returned to New York City as assistant vice president in the personnel department in 1938.

In 1943, Bolenius was appointed general traffic manager of the telephone company's Long Island area. Later that year he returned to Albany as vice president and general manager. Three years later he was appointed vice president and general manager of the Wisconsin Telephone Company at Milwaukee. He was elected president of that company in 1946.

In 1948 he became vice president of A. T. & T. in New York, in charge of personnel relations. He became vice president in charge of finance in 1951. He was appointed executive vice president in 1958 and vice chairman of the board in 1961.

Bolenius is a director of the Morgan Guaranty Trust Company of New York and of the International Nickel Company of Canada, Ltd.

He became a trustee of Hamilton College in 1949.

LETTER FROM ABROAD —

'Paris Students Go Boom'

(The following is excerpted from a letter received by Bruce Winter from Harry Kopp, who is currently spending his junior year in France.—Ed.)

Paris students go boom. Last week the whole bloody U. of P. (Paris, not Penn) was out on strike, at the Sorbonne (technically the Faculte des Lettres et des Sciences Humaines of the University of Paris), at the Faculte de Droit, at the Faculte de Medecine. All the technical colleges were also out, bringing the number of striking students to 300,000 or thereabouts. Students also struck elsewhere in France, at the Universities of Gaen, Grenoble, Strasbourg, and Lyon. The strike lasted a week, and the culmination was Friday's riot (Nov. 29) of which you saw the films on Huntley-Nutley-Brinkley-Winkley.

The grievances were mainly about overcrowding, and they are legitimate complaints. The Sorbonne itself, built in 1650 by Richelieu for 1900 students, now holds 29,999. Classes meet in the corridors, in the basement. Seats in classrooms are at a premium, and for certain courses a student who wants to sit down must arrive an hour early and get in line outside the door; a student who wants to get into the room ta all must arrive half an hour early; those who come on time stand in the hall and try to listen. The library at the Sorbonne is likewise a joke. It serves 29,000 students; it is open six hours a week, has 52 seats, and costs six dollars for a one year card which permits the holder to borrow up to three books for up to one week. No ne knws how many volumes it contains since no one has ever gotten inside to count them. Student enrollment in the U. of P. increased by 25,000 over last year, and no new buildings have gone up. The University is run by the government, and so the students have an authority to riot against it.

And riot they did. The demonstration was forbidden by the police, who on Friday were out in huge numbers all over the Latin Quarter. Despite this, 12,000 students (newspaper estimation) managed to get together and go boom. The box score showed 40 students and four policemen injured, and numerus arrests. (Among those arrested was John Simon, who was picked up for being in the wrong place at the wrong time. He was in jail from two in the afternoon till nine at

To the Editor:

The Spectator of the past months has been a tremendous improvement over those of the past. Subject matter, writing, and make-up have been very good. In short, with minor exceptions, the Spectator has been an asset to the college.

I note with apprehension, however, the issue of Dec. 6. There seemed to be a great lack of proper direction in the preparation of this issue. First, the well done editorial was placed next to the story of Miss Corio. Somehow, the death of the President of the United States rates a tribute which is not placed next to an article about a stripper. Such an unfortunate placement is unforgivable.

Secondly, the article concerning Miss Corio was rather poorly written and failed to hold together. Why it was included in the paper is a mystery.

Third, this writer wonders what headline writer and what editor allowed the "We'll Resort to Anything" head on the basketball story. Come on now!

Student Leaders Explain Purposes Of Tutorial Plan

A tutorial project to help underprivileged high school students will be started in Utica early in February.

The project has three aims: 1) to help the student in his school work; 2) to help the tutor and student better understand the problems and circumstances that have necessitated the project; 3) to help the student realize his potential for solving these problems.

Each tutor will work with one student and will meet with him at least once a week at either the Brandegee School on Monday evening or at the Potter School on Tuesday or Thursday evenings. Sessions will run from 7:30 to 9 p.m. Transportation will be provided.

Any students interested in working on the tutorial project should contact Bill Goodman or Stan Fisch.

L. I wonder how many people will be hurt by rushing this year.

PROF. It's hectic, exciting and can be full of pain too if things don't work out well. Whether it comes in the beginning or at the end of the first semester, freshmen are going to have to face it some time.

L. Do you think freshmen should join fraternities at the beginning or at the end of the semester?

STUDENT. I think at the end. For one thing freshman year in a sense is a carry over from prep school, a bridge so to speak from one year of class unity to another. Identity with a class is fun for a year and pretty healthy. I think you remember your freshman year more and are more conscious of it because of the common experience of hate and bitterness for Dunham Dormitory. Wisdom through suffering may sound corny, but is essentially very true. At the end of the first term, freshmen feel blue and let down. This seems to me to be a good time to join a fraternity because then contact with people who have gone through the same kind of feeling would be helpful.

L. Do you agree?

PROF. Very definitely. There are 230 guys in Dunham from 184 different kinds of places. That these men, coming from widely disparate social and economic backgrounds have to face the same, new-found problems and have to swallow the same restricted freedoms is absolutely desireable in the beginning of a college experience. If you join a fraternity right away, sure, you're golden socially, but the academic side is tough. For this reason, I'm convinced the freshman dorm is a good thing because you have a decent academic start and a good semester's padding of experience.

L. Do you think you get class togetherness again as a senior?

STUDENT. Yes, I think you do. Sophomore and junior year you are divided, but by the time senior year rolls around you have that common bond again, if for no other reason than that you've all made it through academically.

PROF. And then, of course, you face the same problem all over again: what to do when you get out. There's no Dunham Dorm to tie you together.

L. What are the ties that bring students together? What are the things that make students feel proud that they are a part of Hamilton?

STUDENT. It's certainly not the courses. I think it's just the people and all the things everyone knows like the football team, the choir, Mark Maxwell, the new theatre — things like that.

PROF. I think it is more the negative ties that bring students together. Social isolation and everybody's miserable. That's all anybody ever talks about. When I was at the Navy Supply Course School at Harvard everyone was united because no one ever talked about anything for four months but getting out. Then when you are on the destroyers and the aircraft carriers you wish you were back in Cambridge. Students face the same sort of thing here, only with them it's the academic problems that bring everyone together. Don't kid yourself. This is a god-damned tough college, and a student takes pride in doing well.

STUDENT. It almost seems like it's the thing to do not to take a lot of pride in things. But look how many students went to Union after we dropped that game to Wagner. Look at the number of people who go to the concerts in the gym. I don't know. It really makes you wonder.

L. How do you think this freshman class compares with the ones you've seen in the past?

STUDENT. It's the best I've seen.

PROF. Absolutely. There's real spirit in this year's freshman class. Outside of the usual superficial gripes, they have a sense of values and a way of congealing as a class that's rare in a college like Hamilton.

L. Don't you think that a student's social failure under the fraternity system might have some effect on his academic life?

PROF. If a student fails to be accepted by this or that fraternity, it might create serious disappointment and twist him. But this guy can always find pearls in the mud if he takes the attitude that he is going to learn from the hurt and bounce back from it.

Art Center Opens Exhibit Of European Paintings

The opening exhibition of 1964 at the Edward W. Root Art Center, Major Work in Minor Scale, is a selection of 30 contemporary European paintings. The exhibition consists of five works each by six different artists, and is sponsored by the New York State Council on the Arts.

The Munson-Williams-Proctor Institute is presenting the display in cooperation with Hamilton's department of art. Supplementing the main exhibit of the 30 contemporary paintings are an additional 10 paintings selected from the E. W. Root bequest to the Institute.

Thomas M. Messer, director of the Guggenheim Museum in New York City, made the choice of paintings for the exhibit. Messer also has prepared an essay to accompany his selection at the exhibition. He believes that the men whom he has chosen are among the distinguished younger artists of Europe. Julius Bissier of Germany, Asger Jorn of Denmark, Guiseppe Santomaso of Italy, Alan Davie of England, Octave Landuyt of Belgium, and Francois Arnal of France are the artists represented in the exhibit. These men have gained international recognition, and all are represented in commercial art galleries in New York City.

The exhibition is scheduled to run from Jan. 6 through Jan. 20. The opening reception, however, will be held Sunday, Jan. 12.

FPC Discourages Social Privileges For Independents

(The following is a resolution issued this week by the Fraternity Presidents' Council.—Ed.)

Fraternity membership confers certain social benefits upon its members: a common place to eat and relax, a place to meet friends, a place for a date to sleep, a place for partying and letting off steam. In addition, a fraternity carries responsibilities which make demands upon the members: working and living with men with whom you may disagree, working for the common good of the house, maintaining the physical plant, paying dues and voting in house meetings. Exercising these responsibilities can provide very valuable experience for a member, but they also require his time and money. In fact, it is only because members are willing to spend their time and money on the responsibilities of running a fraternity that the house can provide social benefits at all. The F.P.C. believes that those who will not assume the responsibilities of membership in a fraternity should not enjoy its benefits, and therefore recommends that it be fraternity policy to deny social privileges to independents.

McEwen Selects Faculty Members

President Robert W. McEwen has announced the appointment of two men to the Hamilton faculty for the second semester.

Frank Schnur, a native of Semlin, Yugoslavia, was named an instructor in German. Schnur received his B.A. in German from Adelphi College in 1962 and is currently doing graduate study.

Shelton McLeod, a research psychologist, will teach a course in sensation and perception, Psychology 35. He received his PhD from Brown University and is presently working at the Human Factors Laboratory at the Rome Air Development Center.

Here and There

by Phil Webb

A new year is upon us, as I quickly discovered when I returned Sunday. The walks and roads were plowed, the yellow chains were down, and there was heat in South dorm. How long will these unexpected atrocities continue?

These initial shocks fostered in me a deep psychological need for stability, tradition, the old order. Fortunately, there was the PX to turn to. Nothing helped restore by sense of Hamilton past more than our new PX-styled English pub.

It was actually rather pleasant to get back here and out of the commercial Christmas season which seems to end instead of begin with Christmas Eve. It brings to mind a work of Isabelle di Caprio I have lifted from Mad entitled "Jabber-Whacky, or: on Dreaming, after Falling Asleep Watching TV."

'Twas Brillo, and the G. E. Stoves,
Did Proctor-Gamble in the Glade;
All Pillsbury were the Taystee loaves,
And in a Minute Maid.

"Beware the Station-Break, my son!
The voice that lulls, the ads that vex!
Beware the Doctor's Claim, and shun
That horror called Brand-X!"

He took his Q-Tip'd swab in hand;
Long time the Tension Headache fought —
So Dristan he by a Mercury,
And Bayer-brak'd in thought.

As in Bufferin Gulf he stood,
The Station-Break, with Rise of Tame,
Came Wisking through the Pride-hazed wood,
And Creme-Rinsed as it came!

Buy one! Buy two! We're almost through!
The Q-Tip'd Dash went Spic and Span!
He Tide Air-Wick, and with Bisquick
Went Aero-Waxing Ban.

"And has thou Dreft the Station-Break?
Ajax the Breck, Excedrin boy!
Oh, Fab wash day, Cashmere Bouquet!"
He Handi-Wrapped with Joy.

'Twas Brillo, and the G. E. Stoves,
Did Procter-Gamble in the Glade;
All Pillsbury were the Taystee loaves,
And in a Minute Maid.

It is, after all, a mad world we live secluded from.

I have noticed lately that Hamilton, in its quest to attract high school seniors and retain disenchanted undergraduates, has given up publicizing such imaginative schemes and fantasies as a student union and a coordinate women's college in favor of winning the Williams Hockey Tournament, swimming meets, and basketball and football games. I am not at all objecting, but I must admit I will miss the old system, which kept quite a few otherwise jobless alumni busy.

This brings to mind a recent Bowdoin Orient editorial which speaks of a recent Bowdoin victory on "College Bowl" and of the tumultuous welcome the "team" received on their return to the campus. It says, "This points, we believe, to the pride most Bowdoin students take in scholastics. The enthusiasm [and perhaps relief on the part of those who had doubted the wisdom of appearing on the program at all] was spontaneous and genuine. It stemmed from the fact that their college had shown the entire country by demonstration [or at least that portion of it watching NBC] that Bowdoin put a high value on scholastics."

Now of course the quick recall of facts tested on "College Bowl" is not a fair measure of a student's intelligence nor of a college's educational aims and accomplishments. Neither is ice hockey. Nevertheless Hamilton spends $1200 annually on hockey sticks for our hockey team alone, and we have yet to refuse to play because we were afraid we might lose. Did we make an unrectifiable mistake in 1962?

Constitution

The Senate's unanimous passage of the proposed new constitution was handled quickly and effectively by the members of the Senate. Under the guidance of Mark Evans, chairman of the Constitution Re-Evaluation Committee, discussion was orderly and to the point. Both the meeting and the passage of the proposed constitution were a tribute to the many months of tedious work and discussion by Evans' committee.

Besides a definite statement of the Senate's powers, the greatest change that the new constitution brings is the establishment of a Judiciary Board elected and acting separately from the Senate itself. The change has long been needed. The position of president of the Senate and chairman of the Judiciary Committee held by the same man has been an onerous and overburdening task, requiring the holder to divide his talents between two jobs, both of which may at times demand his full attention. If the constitution is ratified, both positions will be made stronger, and more students will be made stronger, and more students will in the student government of the College.

A cure for the ills of student government cannot come at once to Hamilton, but the ratification of the constitution will be a move in the right direction. Despite its length, the constitution should be read in full by the entire student body. A sensible affirmative vote by the students is necessary.

Relief for the Infirmary

President McEwen's announcement this week of the appointment of a resident College physician brings a breath of fresh air to what has long been one of the most persistent problems on the Hill. Students' complaints about medical service in the Infirmary have often been more vocal than their complaints about the ills themselves.

The College has not been primarily at fault in the problem. For almost two years, it has undertaken an arduous search for a physician both qualified and willing to accept the job. The position of resident physician at a small liberal arts college in Upstate New York does not have the widest appeal. Certainly the majority, if not all, of Hamilton's pre-meds would testify that it is not the position they are searching for upon graduation from medical school.

The College has at last found a man, however, who is eminently qualified and is desirous of the job. According to administrative officials, Dr. Roe has been practicing for many years and now wants to settle down to a less demanding practice that may afford him some time for research. The College had originally hoped that he would be able to begin in his position at the beginning of the second semester, but the task of seeing that his practice is in good hands before he leaves it has necessitated Dr. Roe's postponing his entrance into life at Hamilton College until the late summer. This, in part, attests to the conscientiousness of the man the College has hired.

We hope that Dr. Roe will be able to bring the College's medical service up to standards that seem to have passed away many years ago.

Awaiting a Report

In spite of the relative silence of these pages in the past two months over the issue of religion on the Hill, discussion has now appeared in another publication, the Alumni Review. The Winter edition of the magazine has devoted all its space to the subject. Dean of the Chapel Colin F. Miller and Instructor in Philosophy and Religion Jay G. Williams have discussed both the teaching and the preaching of religion in their articles, "The Teaching of Religion" and "How Heathen Is the Hill?"

Both articles are indeed worth reading by all students on the Hill, for they are the only attempts at an explanation of the College's requirements in religion that are available in print. A number of the administration has said that the College is in no way responsible to answer criticisms of policy that appear in these pages, just as President Johnson is not obligated to reply to the New York Times. Unless a group of students requests an explanation of the requirement, we will have to be content with what appears in the Review.

Dean Tolles asked the faculty's Committee on Religious Program (Miller, D. Ellis, Johnston, H. Long, and Williams) to avaluate the religious program on the Hill. Such an examination, he said, should be conducted about every ten years, but has not been for about 13 years. The Committee, he said, has given him its report, and it will be discussed at the meeting of the faculty in February.

What the Committee has or has not recommended we do not know, but from the general tenor of Dean Miller's article in the Review, we suspect that the Committee has not requested any sweeping changes.

We ask, however, that the faculty consider this matter very carefully.

I watched the riot from about 4:30 - 5:30 from a vantage point near the Luxembourg station, on the fair-territory side of the police line, the same line which earlier had arrestde Simon. It was quite a show.

But Wallace said he enjoyed greater satisfaction from meeting the five freshmen presently benefitting from this program and seeing how it is helping them than he did from the actual soliciting of the scholarshihp grant from the Clark Foundation.

Evans Explains Constitution

(As chairman of the Constitution Re - evaluation Committee, Mark Evans delivered the following remarks to the Senate at its meeting this week. — Ed.)

What you have before you is the result of several months of research, debate, argument, and careful consideration. It presents the present concept of student government in a new theoretical framework. In practice very little has been changed. In theory much has been clarified. This new constitution provides a clear and coherent theoretical basis for student government. It attempts to make explicit the purposes, powaround the student body. It is ers, and limitations of student government at Hamilton. We take this to have been our most important function and, consequently, our most significant achievement. Although details always have a certain importance of their own, they are so much easier to deal with once the basic principles have been established. Therefore, our first concern has been, and will continue to be, matters of principle.

The most important principle, the one upon which the entire constitution is based, is that the powers of student government lie with the students. This constitution is organized and developed concerned with giving to the student body the most effective and reasonable government possible, within the limits prescribed by the trustees of the College. The power is in the student body — the student government is vested with power from and is thus responsible to the student body. This has seemed to us the right way to structure the institution of student government, and this is the most important principle of the new constitution. A great deal of the rest of the constitution is based directly upon this fundamental principle and derives its justification entirely from it.

The Preamble states and makes explicit the understood limitations upon student government. In Article II, its purposes and powers are spelled out as clearly as possible. The rest of the constitution is organized logically with the general framework having as its foundation, the students.

The most important operational change in this constitution has been the formation of a Judiciary Board entirely independent of the student senate and elected specifically for its stated purpose by the student body. We have felt that this change was necessary in order to protect the principle of judicial independence. Thus there are two bodies — each vested with distinct and different powers by the student body.

The Committee has considered many possible provisions of election schedules and procedure, but we have concluded that the solution presented is the most practical and sensible one.

There will be several transitory problems which will arise, and the solution to these problems will have to emanate from the Senate itself. We are prepared to offer several suggestions, particularly with regard to the Judiciary Board chairmanship for next year.

Finally, we feel it is important to understand that many questions cannot be answered now, nor are they meant to be. No written constitution can be all-inclusive with ready answers for all questions and a cover for every loop-hole. Hopefully there will develop a strong sense of custom and tradition, an unwritten constitution to supplement the written one. Many of the problems and unanswered questions tonight will be solved in practice without any trouble at all. We do not claim that this constitution is perfect. It will need revision and more revision as practice teaches us new lessons and helps us to conceive of new ideas. For this reason we have made provision for a standing Constitution Committee in the new Student Senate.

We have tried above all to temper as much as possible the important theoretical principles with sensible, practical considerations.

Hamilton Six Upsets Bowdoin To Cop Williams Invitational

by TOM CRANE

A spirited Hamilton College hockey team returns to action tonight after a three week layoff when it tangles with Middlebury in Middlebury, Vermont. Tomorrow the icemen take on Norwich and then return home to face Cornell next Wednesday night. With one-third of the season now under their belts, the Continentals will be seeking to extend their two game winning streak this weekend.

Christmas came early for Coach Greg Batt and his skaters. After dropping their opening four contests to Colgate 4-1, Army 8-1, Williams 5-2, and Princeton 8-0, the Hillmen surprised everyone as they carried away the winner's trophy in the Williams Invitational Tournament, played just before Christmas. By defeating Amherst and Bowdoin, the Continentals picked up their first two wins of the season.

In the opening round of this annual small college tournament, the Continentals faced Amherst, while Williams met Bowdoin. The Hillmen drubbed the hapless Lord Jeffs 8-4. Amherst stayed close until the closing minutes of the second period.

Leading 3-1 at the 18:05 mark, the Continentals poured in three goals in less than a minute and one-half to put the game out of reach. Hamilton maintained its lead in the final period and coasted to victory.

Jon Kinne, Rad Pearsall, and Tom Macy collected two goals a piece for the Hill sextet, while Phil Baldenhofer and Walt Blake tallied one apiece, as Hamilton piled up its largest point total in several seasons.

This victory, coupled with Bowdoin's 6-3 triumph over Williams, resulted in the Hamilton-Bowdoin match in the finals. The Continentals tallied early in this one as Kinne scored unassisted at 2:19 of the opening period. Baldenhofer increased the margin to 2-0 at 15:13 and the Continentals left the ice sporting a lead.

After a scoreless and tightly played second period, however, the Polar Bears deadlocked the score early in the third stanza. With regulation time expired, the score remained knotted at 2-2. Then, in a sudden-death overtime period, Henry Little rammed in a stray rebound at 3:41 and the Continentals became tourney champions in dramatic fashion.

The Hamilton victories in the Williams tournament were both team efforts. The all-junior line of Blake, Bill Cranz, and Pearsall added some sorely needed offensive punch. Kinne, returned to center on the second line, scored three goals and led the team in shots.

Baldenhofer and Little, who had seen little action before the Tourney, both played aggressively and tallied timely goals. The defense of John Cookman, Tom Macy, and Ted Marks gave their usual standout performances.

Their victory total of one year ago already matched, the Continentals will be playing two games this weekend which Coach Greg Batt rates as toss-ups. Middlebury has been seriously weakened this year by the graduation of All-American Dates Fryberger and All-East John Weeks and Ed Germond.

Lacking a truly outstanding player for the first time in ten years, the Panthers have compiled a poor 0-5 record. Among these losses was an 11-1 setback at the hands of Army. Led by Captain Roger Lewandowski, however, they will undoubtedly be trying to notch their first victory tonight.

Norwich, like Middlebury, is also undergoing a building year. The Cadets lost their entire first two lines as a result of graduation. With them went Norwich's potent attack.

The Cadets rely mostly on a stout defense and an outstanding goalie, George Philley. Philley, from Clinton, placed second behind Ted Marks in All-East Small College rankings.

Norwich is also winless to date, dropping all six of its games, including a 5-1 loss to Bowdoin.

On Wednesday, the Continentals will play their last game before examinations, facing Cornell. The Ivy-Leaguers have been erratic in compiling a 5-4 record to date.

The Hot Corner

by BRUCE ROCKWELL

A quick glance at the E.C.A.C. hockey standings which were in The New York Times this week was a pleasant surprise to Hamilton hockey fans. Hamilton was not at the bottom of the list. No, seven teams trailed the Continentals in the stndings. Three of them were "hockey schools" – Colby, Middlebury, and Norwich. Lo and behold, our boys were tied with Williams and Yale.

Last year we were ecstatic when in the season finale our team upset Middlebury, 2-1, to notch a 2-14-1 record. But this year we really have something to holler about! With only one-third of the season gone, the Continentals have equaled last year's number of victories. And what's more, they have won the Williams Tournament besides.

The tourney victory is probably just what the doctor ordered for the team. All the hard work has finally paid off. The players proved to themselves what they could do. Although perhaps the 8-4 victory over Amherst was not unexpected, the 3-2 triumph over Bowdoin had to be considered a big upset.

After the loss to Princeton, on the night before the tournament began, Coach Greg Batt reshuffled his lines. He put Rad Pearsall, Walt Blake, and Bill Cranz back on the same line. Veteran Jon Kinne centered the second line of Phil Baldenhofer and Henry Little. And it was this line that scored all three goals in the Bowdoin upset.

As always, the defense was superb. The defensemen, John Cookman and Tom Macy, played 60 minutes of both games. In the Amherst game the defensemen also joined in on the offensive assault. Macy scored two goals, and Cookman assisted on three others.

Not to be overlooked is the play of Ted Marks. He made 62 saves against Princeton, had a relatively quiet time against Amherst, having to make only 22 stops, but really showed his stuff in holding Bowdoin's offense to two goals. In this game he made many outstanding saves, and 36 in all.

Jon Kinne, another of the seniors on the predominantly junior team, has been playing some of the best hockey of his career. He leads the team in scoring (7 points) and goals (5).

The outlook is bright for Batt's hustling sextet. Either of the two games this weekend, with Middlebury and Norwich, can be won. All three teams appear to be of equal strength, but the home team must always be given the edge.

Hamilton can win one or both of the games this weekend (and could give Cornell a real battle) if the team plays as it did against Bowdoin.

Injury-Riddled Cagers To Face Norwich Five

Hamilton's basketball team will seek its fourth straight victory against Norwich here tomorrow at 2 p.m. The Vermont netmen, who defeated Union, bring an otherwise big team headed by Bill Aja, their 5' 8" jump shot specialist and top scorer. Their slow, deliberate game should benefit the Continentals who also practice ball control.

Coach Ken Patrick's team will be weakened, because Ken Palmer, the top scorer with a 19 point average, is sidelined with a badly sprained ankle. He will be out for at least the next three games. Bob Adams, who had 14 points against Franklin and Marshall, is also out for an indefinite period because of a back sprain.

After losing the first game of the season, 75-60, to Union, the Continentals have bounced back to win three straight from Dickinson, Franklin and Marshall and Hobart.

On the Pennsylvania trip, Ken Palmer led the team to a 69-51 victory over Dickinson with 29 points. Don Sweeney, who had 25 against Union, threw in 13, and John Elliott, 11. The following night, Franklin and Marshall bowed to the Continentals 65-54. Palmer again led the way with 15 points. Sweeney had 14 and Elliott, 12.

The following Tuesday Hamilton ran its win streak to three, with a fine 64-52 victory over Hobart. With Palmer scoring 14 in the first half, the netmen led 34-15 at halftime and never trailed. Palmer ended with 17 points, Dave Grubin collected 12, and Marty Hilfinger, 10.

With Palmer and Adams injured now, the scoring load will have to be taken over by Sweeney and Elliott. Sweeney has been hampered by a sprained ankle, but is expected to be ready for tomorrow's game.

Next week, the Continentals are on the road for two games. They play R.P.I. Wednesday and Utica College, led by Mike Brown, on Thursday.

Hamilton Swimmers To Meet Three Opponents This Week

by JOHN FRISBEE

With two one-sided victories behind them, the Continental swimmers will meet the Norwich University swimming team here tonight at 8. Tomorrow afternoon, Hamilton will meet a strong, well-balanced squad from RPI, also at home.

Norwich, in its first season of intercollegiate swimming, is suffering from the problems involved in getting a new sport under way. The team, guided by coach Charles Norton, has only four men on the varsity squad and four on the freshman squad.

Because of the shortage of varsity swimmers, Norton will use freshmen along with the varsity, although their points will not actually count. Norwich has lost its only meet this season, 54-41, to the University of Vermont.

Hamilton coach Roy Larson commented that Norwich has several fine swimmers in spite of the lack of team strength. The varsity, he stated, has a fine diver, and the freshmen have two very good men.

A freshman breast stroker has recorded times better than the members of Hamilton's varsity, and another freshman has had times comparable to Hamilton's in the 200 and 500-yard freestyle. "Although Norwich freshman times will not count, this will be an interesting meet to watch," commented Larson.

Saturday afternoon, the Continentals will face several of the better swimmers in the state when they met the Engineers of RPI. Last year, Hamilton won a 49-46 squeaker over the Engineers.

"They have some very good swimmers," said Larson, "and will probably be about ten points better than we are." In sophomore Jim Bradburn, Larson noted, RPI has one of the best swimmers in the state. Statistics will substantiate him. In the Engineers' 64-31 victory over Trinity, Bradburn set a new school record in the 200-yard breaststroke with a time of 2:25.8. Last year as a freshman, he set a freshman state record in the 100 yard breaststroke.

Along with Bradburn, RPI has nine lettermen back from last year's squad and six other sophomores up from last season's fine freshman team. The team also has strength in the butterfly, the backstroke, and all freestyle events, added Larson.

On Saturday, January 15, the Continentals will travel to Cortland for the final meet of the semester. Larson said that the Hamilton and Cortland teams should be very evenly matched. He went on to say that the winning team would not have more than a three to five point victory.

"It will be a very close meet and a good one for either team to win," Larson commented. "The winner will be the team which is best prepared for the meet."

Larson mentioned that Cortland's Pat Ferguson, one of the best swimmers the Continentals will face all season, could conceivably win three events himself. Cortland also has a fine diver in Dave Buckholtz and the team has good freestyle strength.

Prior to the Christmas recess, the Hamilton swimmers overpowered their first two opponents by almost identical scores.

In the season opener, the Continentals defeated Harpur, 60-34. Hamilton men took firsts in seven of eleven events. Chris Vickery and Gary Cramer each won two events. Vickery won the 50-yard freestyle and the diving events, and Cramer took firsts in the 200-yard butterfly and the 200-yard individual medley.
